A creative Assignment: Ensure Visibility of the ACC Project in the News

As part of the ACC project, we aim to raise awareness about our goals and activities. Your task is to ensure that our project is featured in the news. This could be local (e.g., village or city newspapers) or, even better, national news.

Why it matters:

Through our collective efforts within the ACC project, we are creating tools and resources for both students and educators to realize our shared ambitions. These tools empower them to become more engaged, proactive, and active citizens, contributing to a stronger and more inclusive community.

Key points to consider:

1. Communicate the goals: Ensure the objectives of the ACC project are clear, such as [briefly outline goals, e.g., sustainability, innovation, strengthening collaboration, etc.].
2. Highlight the tools and impact: Emphasize how the project supports students and educators with practical tools and resources to achieve our ambitions. Showcase how this inspires and empowers active citizenship.
3. Connect the project to local or national relevance: Present a story that resonates with readers or viewers, such as a specific initiative, an event, or the tangible impact on the community.
4. Take a creative approach: Consider interviews, press releases, or unique angles to engage the media.
5. Document the results: Keep track of the media coverage (articles, broadcasts, etc.) and share this with the team.

Deadline: March 15, 12:00

By ensuring media visibility, we can amplify the ACC project's impact and inspire broader support for our mission. If you need assistance with press contacts or brainstorming ideas, don't hesitate to reach out.
